

Holiday Homework

 Comparisons of classical and operant conditioning in terms of the processes of acquisition, extinction, stimulus generalisation, stimulus discrimination, spontaneous recovery, role of the learner, timing of stimulus and response and nature of response (reflexive/voluntary)

	CLASSICAL CONDITIONI NG	OPERANT CONDITIONING
	(CS) (US) Tone Food (UR) Salivation	WILL PRESS & LEVER FOR FOOD
Other names
Key Researchers
Basis of Learning
Nature of response
(reflexive/voluntary) The type of behaviour
The type of behaviour
The source of the behaviour

The role of the learner
The timing of the stimulus and response (Timing of reinforcement)
The effect of partial
reinforcement
remorcement
Processes of acquisition
The second of acquirement
Process of Extinction
Stimulus generalisation

Stimulus discrimination
Spontaneous recovery
,
L	I

Similarities and differences between one trial learning and classical conditioning

	ONE TRIAL LEARNING	CLASSICAL CONDITIONING
Similarities between each
Differences between each		