

Questions for the Mental Illness Timeline

Read your timeline with a highlighter or pencil, in order to find:

- ❖ evidence of greater differentiation over time in the description of mental illness;
- ❖ evidence of a disorder that was only later given a psychiatric label
- ❖ 5 examples of therapy to cope with/treat/address mental illness
- ❖ the name of the manual used to define mental illness worldwide
- ❖ 2 types of drugs used to treat mental illness
- ❖ a scientific technique for studying mental illness that became available in the last 40 years (and increasingly advanced in the last 20)
- ❖ 2 disorders that have been discovered to have a clear genetic link
- ❖ a word that means "blemish" or "spot" and which relates to the prejudices that still beset those who suffer from mental illness

Questions for the Mental Illness Timeline

Read your timeline with a highlighter or pencil, in order to find:

- ❖ evidence of greater differentiation over time in the description of mental illness;
- ❖ evidence of a disorder that was only later given a psychiatric label
- ❖ 5 examples of therapy to cope with/treat/address mental illness
- ❖ the name of the manual used to define mental illness worldwide
- ❖ 2 types of drugs used to treat mental illness
- ❖ a scientific technique for studying mental illness that became available in the last 40 years (and increasingly advanced in the last 20)
- ❖ 2 disorders that have been discovered to have a clear genetic link
- ❖ a word that means "blemish" or "spot" and which relates to the prejudices that still beset those who suffer from mental illness

Questions for the Mental Illness Timeline

Read your timeline with a highlighter or pencil, in order to find:

- ❖ evidence of greater differentiation over time in the description of mental illness;
- ❖ evidence of a disorder that was only later given a psychiatric label
- ❖ 5 examples of therapy to cope with/treat/address mental illness
- ❖ the name of the manual used to define mental illness worldwide
- ❖ 2 types of drugs used to treat mental illness
- ❖ a scientific technique for studying mental illness that became available in the last 40 years (and increasingly advanced in the last 20)
- ❖ 2 disorders that have been discovered to have a clear genetic link
- ❖ a word that means "blemish" or "spot" and which relates to the prejudices that still beset those who suffer from mental illness

